EX-CHIEF KAISER TELLS OF KELLEY

Says He 'Just Figured' at Start Mrs. Nellie Muench Might Be Connected With Case.

QUESTIONED BY HER ATTORNEY

Relates in Deposition Conversations With Members of Victim's Family Early in Investigation.

Police Capt. Robert Kaiser, who was Chief of Detectives when Dr. Isaac D. Kelley Jr. was kidnaped in April, 1931, testified today, in a deposition hearing at Clayton, that he mentioned Mrs. Nellie Muench in his first conversation with Mrs Kelley, while Dr. Kelley was still in the hands of his captors. He said he also asked William D. Orthwein, Mrs. Kelley's brother-in-law, as to any contacts between Mrs. Muench any contacts between Mrs. Muench and the Kelley family.

Kaiser was one of four witnesses summoned by the attorneys for Mrs. Muench, now under indictment on the charge of kidnaping for ransom in the Kelley case, to give their depositions, The others were Detective Albert Detert, Detective Thomas Hale, and Preston Sultan, a witness to the seizure of Dr. Kelley.

Defendants Not Present. Neither Mrs. Muench nor any of the other defendants in the Kelley case, set for trial Sept. 24, was at the hearing. The defendants in cus-tody are Bart Davit and Angelo Rosegrant, in Clayton Jall, and Fe-lix McDonaid, prisoner in the pen-itentiary. Tommy Wilders, Shelton gangster, the fifth defendant, is a Seigniorage to Date Running at Nearly Two-Thirds of Income Tax Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.-The "profit" the Government makes on silver is almost proving a rival to the income tax. Seigniorage reaped since the beginning of the program to make silver one-fourth of the metal back of the currency is run-ning at nearly two-thirds of income receipts. It stands at $18,316,937, according to latest figures. The tax collections since July 1 amount to $28,430,299.

The "profit" is the difference between what the Treasury pays for silver and the monetary value of $1.29 an ounce. Against silver which was in the Treasury before the silver purchase set the fore the silver purchase act, the Gov-ernment is issuing currency on the basis of $1.29 an ounce, although the cost was much lower. Officials have emphasized that there is no other silver above a cost basis.

HOPE FOR PEACE IN MINNEAPOLIS STRIKE DWINDLES

Rehiring Pickets Who Have Been Arrested in Outbreaks.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON. A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 17 MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 17.

-Hope for an early and peaceful settlement of the truck drivers' strike, which has caused this city to be kept under martial law for the last three weeks, faded yesterday as employers reiterated their refusal to reinstate strikers who have been arrested for picketing.

The grim realities of martial law in a great city, and the determination of Gov. Floyd B. Olsan to com-of Gov. Floyd B. Olson to compel employers to settle on a basis which he considers fair to the strikers, were emphasized yesterday when he announced that any employer found guilty of evadhis military permit regulations would be summarily arrested. The spectacle of a leading business man being seized by troops and thrown into a barbed wire stockade may seem fanciful, but actually it may occur any hou..

Employers angrily charged the Governor with "squeezing" and there appeared some basis hand, the Governor replied that Highway No. 66. They stopped at their refusal to reinstate pick-ets was actuated by a desire to de-stroy the truck drivers' union by banishing most of its active leaders.

Effectiveness of "Squeeze."

The effectiveness of the "squeeze" is dramatically illustrated by what is happening at the Central Market, an aggregation of produce and com mission houses covering six city blocks. National guardsmen patrol the sidewalks and there is virtually no business. Some distance away on a parking space, however, are hundreds of farmers' trucks, and the owners doing a land-office business. A few days ago Gov. Olson revived a defunct farmer's co ive marketing association, and thus set up a new central market which threatens to put the old one out of Violence was barely averted yesterday morning when union leaders decided to defy military regulations by resuming picketing at the Central Market. Word of their determination reached military headquar ters, and when the picketers arrived they found themselves faced by a battalion of troops. After some hesitation they decided to return to union headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.-A suron relief or low wages shows an improvement over a year ago despite the depression. The reports gathered by various agencies were compiled by Dr. Martha M. Eliot of New Haven, Conn., who worked in co-operation with the Federal Children's Bureau and the Yale University School of Medicine.

Among the first states to take emergency measures was Pennsylvania it," said the oil man. "Electrification of the railroads is already a thing of the past. The Diesel engine is the economic and independent unit of the future. The only Over and over he emphasized "law and order."

One state concentrated on diphtheris by treating 100,000 children.

Another state reported 100,000 of its children were fed school lunches after a thorough program of phy-sical examinations. A third state reported 64,000 children were fed at school during several months of the year.

Two states have appointed directors for child hygiene. In another state the relief administrator is paying a pediatrician to advise and direct local committees. In 11 states sociology the Civil Works Administration employed trained public nurses to direct health programs carried out by volunteers from parent-teacher groups, women's clubs, farm bureaus and others.

reaus and others.

The motive behind these campaigns was not so much the fear of a present lowered vitality among children as fear of the toil which inadequate diets now would take in the years to come. In the last two years relief budgets have been increased in an attempt to prevent the undermining of health. One hundred twenty-four urban areas in January, 1932, reported an average relief payment of $17.66 a month. The average had increased $19.87 in January, 1933, and to $22.32 in 1934. One large city paid an average of $47.78 for March, 1934.

Infant Mortality Lower.

Dr. Eliot's report said the infant mortality and tuberculosis death rates were dropping, but insisted such rates are no adequate key to child health.

reputed impeachment of its author-All signs pointed to a sweeping investigation of the administration of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley in New Orleans and there was a widespread rumor that a petition was in prospect calling for the impeachment of two judges of the New Orleans Civil District Court in Long's "mopping up" process against the city rule.

Long's personally - supervis House bills were ready to skip through the Senate where he and Gov. O. K. Allen held a safe ma-

What Legislation Provides.
As passed in the House over oaring objections of a weak minority, this program gives the Governor a free hand with the State militia beyond court interference, added strength in election machinery and a State police force of personnel sufficient to enforce law anywhere in the State.

Long said that this legislation would insure "honest elections" and furnish a weapon to break the "vice ring" in New Orleans, but the minority leaders from country par-ishes declared that the Senator was seeking to get the election machin ery and thereby perpetuate himself in office.

Mayor Walmsley said that he would welcome any investigation into the affairs of New Orleans and the president of the Senate were only waiting passage of the investigation resolution by the Senate to appoint a joint committee to conduct the investigation.

Attempt to Bar Long.

Asked about the reported imeachment petition, Senator Long refused to discuss it other than to say "It is not in circulation at this Disturbance arose in the House over the attempts of Representa-tive George Lester of West Felicihenchmen" entirely from the House chamber by invoking completely the rule against lobbying.

Previously sent off of the floor, Long was talking to members of he House from the rear over the guard rail. He eagerly watched each movement as administration leaders and opponents rushed down front with shouting and fist clinching until Lester, a leader of the anti-Long minority, modified his motion on the ground that if he in-voked it the Long men would also order the press out of the chamber.
"Cards Stacked Against Us,"

"I know the cards are stacked against us and that any piece of legislation proposed is going to be choked down our throats," shouted Lester in calling for the anti-lobbying rule, "but I object to the childleaning over the rear rail to tell members what to do.

"I have no objection to the press remaining at the press table. What I lobject to is the childish performance of Huey Long and his henchmen shouting orders to members on the floor of this House."

"I'm not a henchman," shouted Representative Horton, 200-pounder from Red River parish, as he rushed toward the Speaker's rostrum.

Other members on both sides rushed down and fist fights appeared imminent until Lester withdrew his demand for the rule.

The Man With Three Lives

By T.R. YBARRA

First American Biographer of the Famous Soldier-Statesman appeared in German towns. In one city a colossal snow man was erectcity a colossal snow man was crected, modeled after him, around which crowds of its citizens clustered through the cold winter days of 1914 and 1915, during which he was bettling against Russia. And they told each other, with the thrill of Admirers told him: "Soon there weneration in their voices how the weneration in their voices, how the old General had said: "Every day I walk two hours against the wind so that I may have some idea of "I wish they wouldn't put one twalk two hours against the wind so that I may have some idea of what my soldiers are suffering!"

His life from the earliest days of childhood was combed for anecdetes. These, invariably creditable to him, were retailed on every side. The man's greatness had been apparent in the very cradle, his strategical genius had shone resplenting the strategical genius had shone resplenting.

true story of Paul von Hindenburg. He had never shown a trace of ge-nius in his career, they said. Char-acter, yes—most decidedly had he shown that, early and late in his life. Firmness, yes—and courage, and common sense, and knewledge of men, and devotion to duty. But genius, never. No use! The Hindenburg Legend was on the move.

The people of the German lower casses took him, without question or delay, to their innermost hearts. There was something in the stern-ness of the man as shown in his pictures, in his massive bulk and unsmiling face, which instantly told the unreasoning masses that here indeed was the perfect national hero. So it was the day after Tannenberg, so it remained.

nenberg, so it remained.

One old woman in East Prussia, miraculously unhurt when her little home collapsed about her in a storm, cheerfully remarked to rescuers who had fought their way to her: "Of course I'm not hurs. I have a patron saint." And she pointed to a cheap picture of Hindenburg. That was shortly after Tannenberg.

Flood of Popularity.

Prussia. The postoffice authorities, without an instant's hesitation, delivered it to Hindenburg.

Breslau University gave, Hindenburg an honorary degree. Other institutions followed suit. Medals were struck with his effigy upon them. Poems in profusion were written about him. Streets and cancer of the profound difference in the public estimation of the two squares in German towns received the public estimation of the two commanders, a difference destined which they had been known, per-hops, for generations. Upon the German market appeared a Hin-lamitous years for Germany that German market appeared a Hin-denburg brand of cigars. Germans followed it. drank Hindenburg beer. They ate Hindenburg biscuits. They bought Hindenburg medicines and articles of wearing apparel. Postcards with Continued on Next Page.

NATIONAL IDOL.

VEN while Hindenburg was still fighting the Russian invaders of East Prussia, busts of him appeared in German towns. It is picture on them sold by thousand. His likeness, every sort of likeness of him, made its appearance on the walls of thousands of German homes. Children in Germany played with Hindenburg dolls.

Gigantic Wooden Statue.

It was not long before the proph ecy of a statue was justified. In front of the Reichstag building in Berlin, at the height of Germany's struggle against the Allies, a huge wooden figure of Hindenburg was erected. Any person who wished could buy a nail and drive it into could buy a nail and drive it into the figure, the proceeds being devoted to war purposes. Thousands of nails soon studded the colossal Hindenburg. Grim and uncouth it stood, as forbidding as the real Hindenburg, hurling his divisions against his foes.

That wooden giant did not appeal to the old warrior. "But if it helps toward winning the war, I suppose it's all right," he reflected, dubiously, and he resumed the prep-aration of disagreeable things for Russians.

Ludendorff Obbligato.

And Ludendorff?

From the first, from the earliest moments of extravagant jubilation in Germany, Ludendorff's name failed utterly to keep pace with that of Hindenburg. Ludendorff's part in Tannenberg won unstinted praise from experts, son, hushed all protest in their minds.

The curtain had been rung up on the tragedy of Erich Ludendorff; the first act was being played in the romantic drams of Paul von Hindenburg.

ENTER POLITICS ON THE WAR FRONT.

PAUL VON HINDENBURG and Erich Ludendorff now entered upon a strange dual existence.
They became the Siamese Twins of embattled Germany. Only Hindenburg, to be sure, thanks to the or of Tannenberg, to the irresistible power of the Hindenburg Legend, remained enshrined as a demigod in the hearts of the Germans. Ludendorff never became a demigod; he never entered into German hearts; to him no shrines were built, no incense burned. Yet. as if in compensation, he bulked, large, from the start, in the dual combination, as a military genius. Germany recognized Ludendorff's master-touch, the drive of his ruth-Germany recognized Ludendorff's posed to the German high commaster-touch, the drive of his ruthless energy, in many a movement commanded by Hindenburg. Conversely, Germany also caught, in the elan of the soldiers carrying out their disgust, ordered them to send the total their disgust, ordered them to send the total their disgust, ordered them to send the total their disgust, ordered them to the total their disgust. Ludendorff's plans, in the flash of their eyes and the ring of their warsongs as they marched, the re-flection of the faith which Hindenburg alone could inspire . Hindenburg and Ludendorff. Ludendorff and Hindenburg. A grim fighting team. From their first meeting in the railway station at meeting in the railway station at Hanover, on that August day in 1914, to those autumn days of 1918 when Imperial Germany lay dying, it is impossible to dissociate entirely the one from the other. Through four years of bloody warfare, they seem to have had neither separate bodies nor separate minds.

The Political Touch.

And now, with the laurels of vic-

As a sequel to the destruction of Samsonoff at Tannenberg and the rout of Rennenkampf amid the Masurian Lakes, they had begun to vision operations on a gigan-tic scale against the Grand Duke Nicholas, with themselves holding the chief command and striking the hardest blows, while other Gen-erals played subordinate parts and took the leavings of the laurely. But this was not to be.

The German high command felt that it must consider not only the eastern but the highly important western front; not only Russian, but French and British foes. More-over, on the eastern front, it was compelled to remember not only victorious Germans but beaten Aus-

NYE SAYS TIRE CODE

Declares Millions Are Added to Costs to Help Big Companies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, aug. 17.—Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, last night said the rubber tire code was "a device to gouge the consum-er and put the small companies out of business" and called upon Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator, to

Citing the NRA price-fixing or-der, he said, "millions of dollars are thus being added to the nation's tire bill for the benefit of a few companies who are not only reaping this huge dividend at the expense of the public, but who are also watching their smaller competitors go to the wall."

His statement included the telegraphic request he sent to Johnson and Johnson's reply. His tele-son and Johnson's reply. His telegram said in part:

"Strong evidence presented me that public is being gouged under so-called emergency price fixing order in rubber tire code. I understand that price-fixing agreement reached at instance of so-called Eig Four who are allegted to be control. Four who are alleged to be control-ling factor in industry and some few other rubber leaders on the ex-cuse of preventing price war.

"Arrangements looks suspiciously like a plan ultimately to eliminate lesser and smaller tire manufac-turers who must sell at same price as Big Four who have advantage of larger capital and national adver-

Johnson replied that the situation was under advisement and that: "The plan would preserve rather than destroy little fellow. Find it relates more to the consumer due to increase price."

Price-fixing for tires was allowed, on the ground that an emergency was threatened because of destructive competition. Nye said prices had advanced 30 to 40 per cent.

MORGENTHAU SR. PRAISES LEADERSHIP OF ROOSEVELT

Says President's Policies Are Rec-ognition of Spiritual Func-tions of State.

By the Associated Press, ELLSWORTH, Me., Aug. 17.—The ELLSWORTH, Me., Aug. 17.—The present policies of the National Government, Henry Morgenthau Sr., former Ambassador to Turkey, said yesterday, were a recognition of the spiritual functions of the state. Morgenthau, father of the Secretary of the Treasury, said President Roosevelt was "wisely using his temporal powers to make his spiritual desires effective." He spoke before the Hancock County Conference, a non-partisan and non-sectarian meeting in the Unitarian Church.

"Today we behold," said Morgen-

Church.

"Today we behold," said Morgenthau, "the beginning of the fulfillment of the prophecy of great idealists who clung to the conviction that all men are brothers, for we see the Government assuming the role of 'my brother's keeper,' in its relationship to all citizens."

As the church, before the separation of church and state, used its temporal powers to fulfill the "divine command to 'do unto others' we are witnessing," Morgenthau said, "a peaceful adoption by the state of the same spiritual leadership formerly exercised by the church. This is a restoration of dual authority under one head."

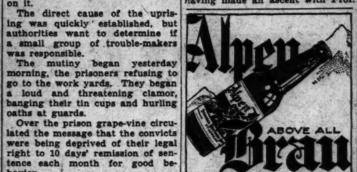

Milk Strike at Fort Worth.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 17.—
A strike of wholesale dairymen became effective today. The wholesalers voted, 57 to 16, last night for a complete blockade of all deliveries to distributors and creameries unless a flat rate of $2.50 a hundred pounds is granted. The current price is $2.18 a hundred. Creamery officers termed the demands "wholly unreasonable." They have enough milk on hand to last 24 to 48 hours.

Michael, 12, Wins Second Prize in School; Likes Music and Drawing.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 17.—Prince Michael, 12-year-old heir to the throne of Rumania, told his school-master in a recent oral examination in French, that his favorite subjects were music and drawing.

jects were music and drawing.
"Music I like becaute it makes me feel dreamy and happy," he said. "Drawing is a great help in fixing something in my memory." The Crown Prince goes to a spe-cial school organized by King Carol after deciding that his son should not be educated in England, home of the boy's grandmother, Dowager Queen Marie. There are a dozen other boys in the class, sons of peasants, merchants and army officers, Carol's idea being to put his heir in touch with a cross section

Competing in this company in the final examinations this year, Michael won second prize in scholarship. The Prince and his "gang" often are seen together splashing in a pool, playing football or attending a match game. Frequently they tear through the streets of the capital in an automobile.

On a recent visit to an army post he slipped into a tank, momentar-ily unmanned, and rumbled off across the parade ground. To excited lieutenants who tried to overhaul him on foot he yelled "Don't worry! I've got a driver's Rise in Buying Power Cut By Increased Living Cost -Thinks Drouth Loss Overemphasized.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.-It appears assured that aggregate farm income inis year will be the largest since 1930, says Standard Statistics Co. in a survey issued today.

"Based on carefully compiled esimates," the survey places farm ncome for the year at $6,059,000,000, and including relief payments, boun-ties, etc., paid to date and in pros-pect for the remainder of the year, anticipates a total figure of $8,250,-000,000, an increase of 29.3 per cent over that of last year.

The total for 1933, including Fedcral benefits, is placed at $6,383,000,000. The totals given for 1931 and 1930 were $6,911,000,000 and $9,414,000,000 respectively. The peak for recent years was $11,918,000,000, for Drouth Loss "Overemphasized." The company expresses the opinion that the drouth as a factor in the general business outlook has een overemphasized.

"Accompanied by a fanfare of publicity," says the survey, "the drouth has been a major influence in disrupting confidence in the business outlook for coming months, it is not generally recognized, however, that the grains, which have been damaged the most and which have received the greatest attention in the news reports, because of speculative interest in their markets, normally provide only a small per-centage of gross income.

Chief Source of Profit. "The bulk of the farmers' income for the whole country is normally derived from livestock and dairy products; these two classifications will provide about 53 per cent of aggregate revenues this year.
"While the adverse influences of the drouth cannot be minimized, especially with respect to those areas which derive the major portion of their income from field crops, it appears that the probable effects upon business generally have been greatly overemphasized.

The survey predicts that the increase in farm purchasing power will be less than the increase in gross income, however, because of the rise in living costs to farmers in the last year. The price index of what the farmer buys averaged 109 in 1933, and currently stands at about 122. "The price index of the rise in the farmer buys averaged 109 in 1933, and currently stands at about 122; "thus, living costs are about 12 per cent higher than those of last year."

MISSOURI 2ND IN CORN-HOG BENEFITS, GETS $4,002,936

Iowa, With $7,591,734 From the AAA, Ranks First; $411,743 for Illinois.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. — Missouri, ranking second in the amount of benefits, had received $4,002,936 up to Aug. 11 from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's corn-Adjustment Administration's corn-hog reduction program, Dr. A. G. Black of the corn-hog division an-nounced today. Iowa, with bene-fits of $7,591,734, led the list. Illinois received $411,743 and Arkansas $125,164.

A preliminary report of payments up to Aug. 15 showed that more than $31,200,000, approximately one-fourth of the estimated first installment of $130,000,000, had been paid fourth of the estimated first installment of $130,000,000, had been paid to farmers co-operating in the cornhog adjustment program. By paying out more than a million dollars a day, the AAA paid farmers $4,-116,823 from Aug. 7 to Aug. 11. More than half a million dollars each went to Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, South Daketa, Indiana and Ohio, which have suffered severely from the drouth. In this same period about one-third of a million dollars went to Illinois and a quarter of a million to farmers in Kansas.

The counties in Missouri receiving more than $50,000 up to Aug. 11 follow: Andrew, $212,408; Barton, $63,427; Bates, $129,045; Boone, $70,304; Buchanan, $50,988; Caldwell, $68,125; Callaway, $57,467; Cass, $123,828; Clay, $110,872; Gentry, $53,947; Greene, $76,280; Henry, $161,-280; Howard, $114,710; Jackson, $71,-998; Johnson, $211,712; Knox, $116,-285; Lawrence, $66,029; Monroe, $53,367; Montgomery, $65,422; Morgan, $58,963; Newton, $51,198; Osage, $50,993; Randolph, $109,188; Ray, $174,082; Saline, $248,168; Shelby, $58,372, and Vernon, $60,110. East St. Louis Hatchery Head Says Drouth Has Killed Breeding Stock.

Fishing in the lakes and ponds of Illinois and Missouri has been hurt by the drouth and the eault will be lean catches for fishermen during the next five years, Dr. A. E. Rives, hatchery supervisor for the East St. Louis Park District, said yesterday.

Most of the lakes and ponds of he district have been lowered three to five feet and the water in them is hot and stagnant, Dr. Rives said. Lack of rainfall has made the fish sluggish and highly unpalatable, he said. Many lakes of a depth of three feet or more have dried up completely.

Fishing is so poor in evaporating lakes, Dr. Rives explained, because the game fish—bass, crapple, blue gill—are too well fed to nibble at bait. Recession of the waters drives the small fish, upon which the game fish feed, into a restricted area, so that the large fish have but to come out at night, cruise around the lake bed for a while, and eat their fill. If the lake were at normal level, the small fish and eat their fill. If the lake were at normal level, the small fish would have plenty of hiding places in the vegetation along the shore, leaving the game fish hungry for the angler's bait.

The drouth will have far-reaching effects, Dr. Rives said. Ordinarily, in the breeding season each year—April and May—the rivers overflow and restock the lakes and ponds, which form the best breeding places. In the east side region the Mississippi, the Illinois and the Okaw perform this function. This year, however, no inundations have occurred, and the lakes and ponds failed to receive their fresh supply of fish. In addition, the heat evaporated the waters, killing millions of breeders.

Effects of the rain of Wednesday and yesterday were practically negligible, Dr. Rives said. This decimation of the breeding stock, Dr. Rives explained, will mean that the few survivors will mean that the few survivors will virtually have to start the race anew with next year's spring floods. Anglers will have to wait till the infant fish spawned then grow to legal size, which will require from three to five years.

Many fish that have survived the Many fish that have survived the low water have fallen victims to the bitterny heron, hell divers and cranes which swarm the shores of the evaporating lakes. Below the water the fish are preyed upon by water moccasins and snapping turtles. The game fish are the first to succumb to drouth, but the rough fish, such as the carp, the buffalo, the dog fish, can usually weather it out. As for catfish, Dr. Rives said, they can live anywhere. Dr. Rives urged a strict observation of conservation and game laws by fishermen. Thousands of fish, he said, are being trapped and seined in lakes where water is low. Only strict enforcement of the laws will save fish in many Illinois and Missouri lakes from extinction, he declared.

THREE HELD AT BALTIMORE IN THEFT OF RELIEF CHECKS

By the Associated Fress.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 17.—A complaint from needy persons that they had not been receiving their relief checks from the Baltimore Emergency Relief Commission, has led to the arrest of two men and woman. Capt. John H. Mintiens, head of the Detective Bureau, said one of the three, Ferdinand E. Heineg-ger, who delivered checks for the relief body, admitted he had turned relief body, admitted he had turned the checks over to his two companions and that they cassied them. The others held are Laura Walters, alias Saily Wright, and Leroy (Mike) Wright. All are charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud.

The amount involved was said by police to be about $300.

LANDIS COMING TO ST. LOUIS FOR CONFAB IN DEAN CASE

Talk Set for Monday After Dizzy Phones Rickey From Chicago

By J. Roy Stockton

The case of the Deans vs. the St. Louis Cardinals will be given further hearing here next Monday morning, when Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, will come to St. Louis from Chicago for a conference with Owner Sam Breadon of the Redbirds. It is expected that Jerome Herman and Paul Dean, the pitchers, now on the suspended list, will attend.

nouncement from Cardinal head-quarters, it is presumed that Dizzy piaced his case before Landis this morning, since Branch Rickey, vicepresident of the club, had a tele-phone call from the pitcher from Chicago. Rickey declared that Dizzy had nothing to add to what he has already said since he was fined $100 and suspended for his failure to make the trip to Detroit with the Redbirds for an exhibition with the Tigers last Monday. Rickey, however, said that he told Dean that if he had his way, his fine would not be refunded. Manager Frisch, who yesterday put a few extra teeth in the indefinite suspension imposed by stating that the boys would have to stay least 10 days, did not make the 10-day feature official by so the suspensions are still indefi-

BELL; REACHES NEWPORT FINAL Johnson and Ruth Agree.

ALLISON BEATS

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17, — Steadiness ovecame brilliancy today when Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., gained his second straight Newport Casino singles tennis final by defeating Berkley Bell of New York, his former home-townsman, 6—4, 1—6, 2—6, 7—5, 6—2 in the finest played match of the entire tournament.

These keen rivals have met five times this season and today's win put Allison one up. From the start to the finish Allison played a rushing game and these aggressive tactics threatened to cause his downfall during the second and third sets and most of the fourth. But the Texan refused to change his carefully laid plans, which seemed fatal against Bell's unorthodox but strong backhand.

Allison banged away at Bell's left side, kept him on the run and finally, in the eleventh game of the fourth set, made him crack. Bell served that set game, threw it away with two double faults and Allison stood all square.
130 Errors for Bell.

Bell made a brave attempt to rally in the fifth set but his cause was lost when Allison, still forcing from the net, forced enough backfrom the net, forced enough back-hand errors to break through at love. From then on Allison, al-though he kept bearing down hard, played cautiously to run out the set Allison had 40 earned points to Bell's 36 in the 45-game five-setter but had 130 errors, including 69 nets, 55 outs and six double fau against his opponent's 116 miscues. Each broke through the other's service five times during the hardfought match.

Only Two Real Differences.

HaD modesty permitted John-son to name himself the greatest pitcher-an honor he was entitled to-and Ruth to select himself above Harry Hooper in the outfield, the only points of difference between the two teams catcher.

Considering the large number of famous players developed in the American League, the similarity of the teams picked by these two great baseball men is surprising. Just before his death the late Ban Johnson named for this writer an all-star American League club which differed in several particulars from those of Ruth and Walter Johnson. Ban Johnson, placed States Johnson placed Sisler on first base, Jimmy Collins on third base, Rhody Wallace at short, Tris Speaker in center field and Lou Criger or Gordon Cochrane as his catcher. None of these is mentioned in the lineups above.

Old Timers Better Players?

WHEN Walter Johnson's lineup was first published one baseball fan's reaction was that the selection made by Walter proved that he was a has in his mental outlook, looking backward rather than to the present, for his selections.

The Ruth choices come as a vindication of Johnson to a degree that is little short of re-markable. The tendency to pick the players of earlier days over those today is largely due to the changed playing conditions gov-erning the game, especially with respect to the baseball, and not necessarily to deterioration in present-day standards of play.

STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT STRAIGHT WHISKIES and Blends of Straight Whiskies

by FRANK B. THOMPSON, President GLENMORE DISTILLERIES COMPANY . INCORPORATED

PEOPLE have discovered that repeal could not restore the old standards of quality overnight. They're asking about straight whiskies and blends of straight whiskies.

We have decided to answer these questions-frankly-and in some detail.

"Straight Whiskey Men" for 62 Years

Glenmore today is an organization of "straight whiskey men," They uphold and carry forward the ideals and traditions established by the founder, James Thompson, 62 years ago.

There Is No Substitute for Experience—and Continuous Operation

Glenmore executives and the key men in the distillery have been on the job continuously—most of them for twenty years-thirty yearsand longer.

The Glenmore organization was held together during prohibition. Thus repeal called for no change in Glenmore operations. Glenmore has simply continued to make fine straight whiskies—and blends of straight whiskies—under increased

Nothing But Straight Whiskies -and Blends of Straight Whiskies

Glenmore products are made from our own straight whiskies produced 100% in the Glenmore distillery in Owensboro, Kentucky.

Kentucky Tavern-Old Thompson-Tom Hardy-and Anchorage all have the same origin-all are made in the same distillery from the same fine materials, according to the same time-tested and proved methods.

These brands differ only in age -and in the fact that two of them are straight whiskies-and two are blends of straight whiskies.

> How to Make Certain of Quality

To make certain of what you are getting in Glenmore and other whiskies-READ THE LABELS -BOTH FRONT AND BACK. They are even more complete and specific than the stringent government regulations.

They constitute a sure guide to fine bouquet-mellow flavor-unfailing uniformity which you can be sure of whenever and wherever you purchase one of these brands.

COAL LABOR BOARD HEARS PROGRESSIVE MINERS' APPEAL

okesmen of Union Contend Dis-crim nation Between Workers Is Contrary to Code. By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 17.—
The Divisional Coal Labor Board vesterday heard arguments over the yesterday heard arguments over the complaint of the Progressive Miners of America that their members are being discriminated against at the Peabody Coal Company's Majestic Mine at Du Quoin.

Dr. John A. Lapp of Chicago, chairman, presided as George W. Dowell, Progressive attorney, charred that the Du Quoin mine has refused to hire coal diggers unless they are members of the United Mine Workers of America. This, the Progressives contended, is contrary to the coal code.

The mine employs about 600 men. Three persons were killed near it in a riot in April, 1953.

Both unions presented evidence

Even for Kaiser Wilhelm—the great friend of the fleet and the uilder of Germany's old maritime power-Hamburg never decked itelf so gorgeously as this.

Representatives of the Army and the Navy, of the police, the gendar-merie and the Hamburg Senate paid Hitler homage as he emerged from his airplane. He strode in front of honor detachments of soldiers, sailors, aviators, labor battalions and Hitler youths. In the harbor the warship Schleswig-Holstein stood by to give him a 21-gun

Inconsistency in Debt Matters. the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

N your editorial of July 27, "Debt Neof the Czarist and Kerensky debts, on the ground that they were not incurred by the present Government, and some of the money was used in fighting the Bolshewists. By common international usage, however, a revolutionary government is liable for the debts of its predecessors, and the Russians, when United States cognition was granted, agreed to abide ment of the sums due in this country."

Our position as regards the Kerensky

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE investigation by an official from Washington should lead to better employment service and a more sympathetic attitude toward the working man. State now labors in its presecution of the criminal. The subject is an old one. It has been under discussion for years. Thus far, it has been a losing battle for the State. Ultimately, the State must win, rabbit may thenceforward be pulled from the hat. The discussion will go on, and professional crime will go on, until an irresistible public opinion will demand action.

No citizen of Missouri has contributed more effectively to the discussion of this question than former Judge Arthur V. Lashly. His recent radio address, a dream-come-true distinction, yet in the present cir-part of which was printed in Wednesday's Post-Dis. cumstances the estate commands new terms of appatch, powerfully summarised the situation. It itemized the privileges accorded the criminal when brought to trial and the disabilities which enchain the State.

Several hundreds were forced across the border into Jugo-Slavia during the brief civil war, and are held in internment camps. Nazis still in Austria will get no more pay if in Government service, and their dismissal by private employers has been ordered.

Austrian Legion men, waiting in Germany for De Tag, have found Hitler most ungrateful for their ardent support of the first article of the "unalterable" Nazi credo: "We demand the union of all Germans in one great Germany." Since Italy and other Powers showed plainly that they would resist by force the long-premeditated conquest of Austria, Hitler has abandoned his Austrian followers. Instead of being armed and started home with Der Fuehrer's blessing, these 15,000 men have been sent to labor camps in Germany. Arthur Frauenfeld and Theodor Habicht, their leaders, once honored by German Nazidom, have fled to Holland to evade the secret police.

These are welcome developments for the cause of European peace. But, together with the bloody events of June 30, they must give pause to those Nasis who swallowed Gen. Goering's fulsome tribute to his demigod, in which he said: "Each individual follower has the wonderful feeling of security that no intrigues, no gossip, no scandal can injure his reputa-

VOLIVA PREDICTS THE MILLENNIUM.

Hitherto, the fame of Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion City, Ill., has rested pretty securely on his magnificent insistence that the world is flat. Not content with that, he now takes the spotlight to prophesy that the world is about to come to an end. No shrinking violet of a prophet is Wilbur. He is not content with dreamy generalization. He has set the day-Sept. 10.

We would not take issue with Dr. Voliva, at least not until Sept. 11. However, we should like to point out that the idea of proclaiming the millennium is not exactly original with him. William Miller, a New York preacher, told his followers that judgment day would arrive some time between March 21, 1843, and March 21, 1844. Accordingly, they gathered cround Miller and made ready, but nothing happened. hen the end of November rolled around, and the sun insisted upon rising every day, the Millerites Belief in the millennium is based on certain pasages in the Bible and has been voiced by numerous religious leaders from the earliest times. Others, like Jerome in the fourth century, refused to accept this interest of good public policy. That deplorable condition sixteenth, when the Anabaptists made it a cardinal point in their creed, and at various times since. It lies at the basis of Mormonism.

The trouble about predicting the millennium on a certain day, however, as the sage of Zien City has done, is that if it does not occur, no more imposing

A SISTER OF CORNELIA

Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt has returned from Europe, enriched by an experience no other woman has had. To be the mother of a President is, of course, a dream-come-true distinction, yet in the present cirpraisat.

By a judgment that approaches a consensus, that carries, perhaps, the authority of tradition, the pres idency has been rated the most powerful office in the world. Today that tradition parallels truth. Against a sea of troubles accounted a crisis of civilization, the world, both of great affairs and of desperate humility, has been looking toward Washington with longing and hope and, in many exalted instances, with a great faith.

Everyone she saw wished her son success, said Mrs. Roosevelt-"all classes, rich and poor. They her privilege, as we all know, not "to stand before Kings," as the scriptural promise tells it, but to call at Buckingham Palace for a delightfully informal chat, and to hear King George ask about Franklin. "My son had met him years ago."

So, in her venerable years, this fine old lady ha walked the heights of wonder, heard solicitous inquiries and listened to expressions of esteem that filled her heart with glowing pride.

She has known the glory which history bestows on the Mother of the Gracchi, who, in the dim light of long ago, visioned a happier day for Rome's "forgot

PRIZE SUGGESTION.

The blue ribbon for the most reactionary and undemocratic proposal of the year undoubtedly goes to it of sufficient importance to be embodied in party "recovery" program, the council says: "We favor the withholding from all persons receiving public unemployment relief the right of suffrage during the period in which such relief is being received." Explaining this remarkable suggestion, Merwin K. Hart, president of the organization, says: "If the millions now receiving relief should organize, as some have already done, they could hamstring any effort to bring about economic recovery."

Disfranchising the unemployed and needy would set up an economic qualification for the ballot entirely foreign to modern American institutions. It would aggravate these persons' economic plight by dangerous political repression. It would bar from the polls thousands of intelligent voters, out of work through no fault of their own.

And we should like the Economic Council to give us an introduction to any sane unemployed citizen who, having undergone the sufferings of the depres sion, now wants to "hamstring recovery."

TESTS IN TWO STATES.

Senatorial nominations in Nebraska and Ohio seem to assure tests of sentiment regarding the Roose velt policies. For while it is true that former Gov. Victor Donahey, who won the Democratic nomination in the Buckeye State, defeated Representative Charles West, backed tacitly by the Roosevelt administration, it is also true that both supported the administration in the primary campaign. In this respect. the race between them was much like that for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Missouri. The similarity carries over into the fall campaign, as Senator Simeon D. Fess, who was renamed by Ohio Republicans for a third term, and Missouri's Sen ator Patterson are among the most conservative mem bers of Congress. In Nebraska, Gov. Charles W. Bryan, Democratic vice-presidential nominee in 1924, fought out his rivalry with Arthur F. Mullen, Roosevelt floor leader at Chicago, and lost. Representative Edward R. Burke of Omaha, a first-termer in the House, who won the Democratic senatorial nomination, with Mulden backing, over the late William Jennings Bryan's brother, has been one of the stanchest supporters of the national administration in Congress.

Opposing Representative Burke in the election will be former Representative Robert G. Simmons, outspoken Republican critic of the administration's policies, who is said to have rankled Senator Norris suf ficiently to induce the latter to mount the stump for the Democratic candidate. The grizzled Nebraskan has jumped the party traces before, and doubtless he will do it again if he thinks that is the way to serve the public interest.

BAD BOY OF ARCHITECTURE.

Raymond Hood was known as the "brilliant bad boy" of architecture. Though he shunned the classical traditions, Hood stood aloof from the geometrical designs of the extreme modernists, so his contributions to the highly controversial field that architecture has become frequently drew fire from both sides. He declined to "add more bric-a-brac to our streets"; he built for today, he said, and not for posterity; for those who used his buildings, not those who saw them.

The Chicago Tribune tower is Hood's impressive combination of Gothic beauty and modern utility. Among the other monuments he leaves are the New York Daily News Building, a striking structure in straight white lines; the American Radiator Building, with its coal-black tower tipped with flaming gold; the masses of Rockefeller Center; the electrical group at the Chicago fair. Raymond Hood held a foremost position in our era of architectural transition

Aberrations of Our Law-Makers

Surveying freak laws, lawyer finds Arkansas once levied fines for playing cards on Sunday, and outlawed toy pistols; Virginia still has death penalty for absences from church; wives and husbands are forbidden in Michigan to kiss on Sunday; Oklahoma prohibits whale-fishing; sneezing on Sabbath is illegal in West Virginia.

From the Arkansas Democrat.

HE ends to which state legislatures, the courts and city councils oftlimes go in their zeal to protect the public peace, health and safety of the citizenship, and the queer laws which are enacted for the guidance of a free people, were brought out last week by E. L. McHaney Jr., Little Rock law yer, in an address before a local civic or-

Narrating the unusual laws in Arkansas which have been enacted if not enforced dur-ing the past half century, Mr. McHaney ointed out some, as follows: A law passed in 1835 requires that "every who shall on the Christian Sabbath or Sunday be engaged in any game of brag, bluff, poker, seven-up, three-up, twenty-one, 13 cards, the odd trick forty-five, whist or any other game of cards by any name now known to the laws, or with any new name, for any bet or wager on such games, or for amusement without any bet or wager, shall $25 or more than $50."

By statute of 1907, it was made unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, acting either as principal or agent, to sell, give away or offer for sale or to have in posses-sion on or about their premises for the purcigarettes or cigarette wrappers or papers to any person or persons.

Two years later, in 1909, the Arkansas
Legislature made it unlawful for any person to sell, own, receive, carry or shoot any toy pistol, firecracker or gun that shoots a blank

An act of 1913 makes it unlawful for any Pullman porter to accept tips. The same statute applies to waters in hotels, restau-rants, cafes and eating houses. In the City of Little Rock it is a misdemeanor, punishable by fine of not less than $5, to fly a kits. In the legislative session of 1927, Act 190 was passed, which provides that "on or after the passage of this act, whenever a wife shall kill or slay her husband, she shall not be endowed in the real or personal estate of her said busband, so killed or slain."

The above law carried an emergency clause which has caused no end of speculation. It reads: "Whereas, murder of husbands is likely to occur at any time in this State under various provocations and it being necessary various provocations, and it being necessary to guard against such homicides immediately, an emergency is deciared, and this act shall take effect and be in force on and after shall take effect and be in force on and activities passage."

Mr. McHaney in his address called attention to the legislative resolution in 1923 which dubbed Arkansas "the Wonder State."

It is a classic of the booster's art. After heralding to the world that Arkansas has more natural resources than any state in the Union, it declares that Arkansas is deserving of "angeigl recognition."

Union, it declares that Arkansas is deserving of "special recognition."

Another resolution by the Arkansas Legislature was designed to give great moral comfort and courage to farmers when they step up to the Sheriff's office window to pay their taxes. This resolution recognized the need of better living conditions on the farm, and sought to relieve the farmer of further tax burdens. The Legislature resolved that a "suitable tablet or monument bearing a suitable inscription dedicated to agriculture" be erected on the Capitol grounds, "to the end that all people may read and come to recog-nize agriculture as the basic industry of our people." The resolution authorized the Governor "to appoint a commission of five with full authority to receive subscriptions, select the design of a tablet or monument and supervise the erection of same."

But Arkeness is not slone in unusual lawmaking. Mr. McHaney in his survey of laws and enactments uncovered the followin Under an old statute still in force in ginia, it is a violation of the law to fail to attend church for three consecutive Sundays, and the person violating that statute is subject to the death penalty. In North Carolina, if one does attend church, it is illegal to sing out of tune at the

In Michigan, there is a law which provides that "if any man kiss his wife, or wife kiss her husband, on the Lord's day, the party in fault shall be punished at the discretion of the court." West Virginia has a statute which makes it against the law to sneeze on Sunday. In Maine, if one whistles on the Sabbath, he is violating a law still on the books.

ples in public dance places must be at least ples in public dance places must be at least six inches apart.

In Vermont and Alabama, as the husband is chargeable for the behavior of his wife, the law thought it reasonable to trust to him the power of restraining her by moderate chastissment. A law provides that a husband may, for such purpose, use a stick no thicker than the thumb.

A statute in Kansas provides that when two trains meet at a crossing, both shall stop, and neither shall start until the other has passed.
In Tennessee, according to an old law hich has never been repealed, "the driver any automobile must give 10 days' notice of any automobile must give 10 days' notice that he is going to drive on any road by tacking notices along the side of said road."

Oklahoma has a law making it unlawful to fish for whales in any of the streams of the State, also a law regulating the operation of docks, wharves and lighthouses. And this in an inland state, hundreds of miles from the oceans or seashorss.

In Eric, Pa., a city ordinance prohibits a person from falling saleep while being shaved in a barber shop.

The Drouth and Food Prices

From Editorial Research Reports,

S ECRETARY WALLACE has estimated that the general cost of living will rise 6 or 7 per cent next winter as a result of the drouth. The Secretary believes that an even larger increase in food prices will ensue, because food crops have been the greatest sufferers from lack of rain.

It is difficult to estimate to what extent retail food prices in the United States will be raised because of lower food crop yields. For one thing, certain crops, like wheat, are primarily world crops. The price of such crops, if not altered by artificial means, is determined by the world price. Thus, the price of wheat in the United States might be high, despite a high production, if the production in other countries were low. This is not true of cotton, most of which is produced in the United States.

A second major factor in determining the prices of food crops is the carry-over from previous seasons. An average crop would not necessarily mean average prices if a ountiful supply were available from lous seasons. Thus, in 1923, the prod vious seasons. Thus, in 1923, the produc-tion of wheat was about the average for the five-year period from 1923 through 1927, but the price was about 20 per cent below the average for that period. The 1922 crop had been a large one.

Similarly, the wheat crop in 1928 was well above the average, and in 1929 the price was about 10 per cent below the 1923-27 average, although the 1929 production was about average.

A third factor in determining food prices is labor, distribution and similar costs. For instance, the Department of Agriculture has retail price of bread is due to the cost of the food ingredients in the loaf. Also, spethe food ingredients in the loaf. Also, specific factors affect the price of specific crops.

In the case of corn, about 85 per cent of the supply is normally consumed on the farm. When livestock prices are low, the farmer naturally feeds less corn to his livestock, and in these circumstances a low corn crop would not necessarily result in higher corn prices. Finally, a period of widespread unemployment creates less consumption, and hence lower prices, athough this factor would be more pronounced in the case of meat than of bread.

Nevertheless, crop failures so widespread.

meat than of bread.

Nevertheless, crop failures so widespread as those of the summer of 1934 must result in higher prices. The most recent estimate of the 1934 wheat crop, 491,000,000 bushels, is 37 per cent below the average of the preceding five years, and last year's crop is put at only 527,000,000 bushels. In 1925, the wheat crop was almost 20 per cent below the preceding five-year average, and the retail price of bread rose 7 per cent above the 1924 price, although wheat production had been high in the preceding year.

The estimate for this year's corn crop, 1,607,000,000 bushels, is 35 per cent below the average of the preceding five years, and last year's crop was well below the average. In 1930, the corn crop was 23 per cent below the average of the preceding five years, and the retail price a corn meal in 1930, when the general agricultural price level was falling sharply, remained the same as in 1920.

Must Be Easy to Carry, Appetizing, Balanced and Cheap.

You remember the tin dinnerpail

You remember the tin dinnerpail, with its narrow neck, holding a tin cup of coffee. And the various tin boxes and other lunch-carrying devices that have come along one after another, in the effort to lessen the bother of it all. We have reached a point now where we can at least reduce the size of the package and avoid having the pail or the tin box to carry back homethanks to cheap paper bags and wax paper, and to the service nowadays of hot coffee or milk almost anywhere. The lunch when it has to be carried to work is a problem, nevertheless. How can it be easy evertheless. How can it be easy o carry, and at the same time apetizing, well-balanced, satisfying nd cheap?

As a matter of fact, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, you really can have better lunches than you used to have, even though you carry them. This partly a matter of the better container and wrappings, with such added conveniences as paper plates curs forks. wrappings, with such added conveniences as paper plates, cups, forks and spoons, to make life easier at lunch time and save work at home. It is partly a matter of the place where you work, and whether you can spend a few cents-on something to add to your lunch—from the truck load of milk that is trundled through the corridor at lunch time. truck load of mix that is trunded through the corridor at lunch time, for instance; or at the corner fruit stand, or the lunch wagon when it pulls up near by. The important thing, of course, is the food value of your lunch, and somebody must think about that, both as to the contents of the package and the cossibilities of rounding out the meal with an extra item or two when the noon hour comes.

Lunch, like other meals, should include different kinds of food. The trouble with the carried lunch is that the foods which are easy to carry are too much of one kind, and others, therefore, are likely to to be left out. It is a good idea to concentrate on those others—for bread and meat and cheese for sandwiches will not be forgotten. The question is, what else might you

Milk Makes Up for Shorter If you can count upon a bottle of milk for lunch, that question is easier. Even if you must squeeze each penny, you can probably better afford to buy that bottle of milk than to do without it. It will make up for many shortcomings in the rest of your lunch, more than any other food you could have. But when you carry a sliced meat sandwich, or an egg or cheese sandwich, put in also a vegetable sandwich, or a ripe tomato, if you can. Or a fruit of some sort. When all is said and done, however, it is hard to get away from sandwiches in a carried lunch, for sandwiches in a carried lunch, for they are the most compact way of carrying food. So we get down to the question of sandwich fillings. Vary the sliced meat with crisp bacon or with the meat loaf or frizzled dried beef. And spread a lettuce leaf or a layer of chopped or shredded cabbage, chopped car-rots or celery, over the slice of meat or cheese in the sandwich; or meat or cheese in the sandwich; or make separate sandwiches of the chopped vegetables, with a little butter or salad dressing, and spread on slices of bread. Or, instead of try a crisp crusty roll, hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or flaked fish which is moistened or seasoned or mixed with salad dress-

Food, however, has another purpose aside from the production of heat—it must provide building and growth material for body needs, and to repair the daily wear and tear. Therefore in planning the food supply, these factors must be kept in mind. It is necessary to use enough fuel to meet the energy needs and to maintain the body in a good state of health, but it is best to do this by selecting those foods that are most easily digested, and that by their mineral salts and acids, have a cooling and refreshing effect. In winter the problem is to effect. In winter the problem is to planning, don't they? And this one can, by such planning, be made body warm; in summer we have to plan to get rid of the extra heat.

Fish Chowder.

For six people use two to three pounds fish—any kind of fish, or any mixture of fish may be used. Have the fish cut in small pieces, put in a saucepan with cold water to barely cover, a teaspoon salt and a few celery leaves. Cover and boil slowly for 10 minutes, cool the fish, strain and save the liquid. Pick over the fish to remove skin and bones, but leave it in good sized pieces. Melt three tablespoons butter in a saucepan or fry out two ounces fat salt pork cut in small pieces. Add three small onions cut in thin slices, cover and cook for five minutes until the onions are slightly yellowed but not brown.
Add three cups diced potatoes (small dice), the fish stock and enough water to make three cups liquid in all. Cover and boil gently for 10 minutes. Add the fish, three cups milk and salt and pepper to season. Just before serving crumble three pilot crackers or large soda crackers into the chowder. Serve as soon as the milk is scalded.

Cubes of watermelon are good

Watermelon cocktail may be made in several ways. One recipe com-bines balls of watermelon and can-taloupe with chilled pineapple juice and a sprinkling of fresh mint. This is delicious in flavor and very atis delicious in riavor and very attractive in appearance. It may be served in boxes of watermelon rind or in cantaloupe shells or just in sherbet cups. To make boxes of watermelon rind, cut the fruit in squares of the desired size—not too squares of the desired size—not too large, please!—scoop out most of the pulp, leaving a shell to hold the cocktail mixture.

Spiced or sweet-pickeled water-melon rind is an old-time delicacy that has never lost its popularity. Recipes are handed down in some families for generations and are highly treasured and more than highly treasured and more than highly treasured, and more than one woman has reaped herself a one woman has reaped nerself a tidy sum by perfecting her technique and building up a business in selling the home-made pickle.

It is the white rind that is used for the pickle, so that after the pink meat has been eaten, the slices may be trimmed, peeled and turned into this delicious sweet-meat. The process is rather a tedious one, but quite worth the trouble it takes. Here is a good recipe if you wish to Spiced Watermelon Rind. Cut the white rind of watermelon into strips, small squares or any desired shape. In the old days, housekeepers prided themselves on the appearance of their watermelon preserves and pickle and many were the shapes that it appeared in— hearts diamonds, etc. Measure, or better yet, weigh the rind. Make a salt and water solution, two tablepoons table salt to each quart wa ter, and cover the rind with it. Let stand over night. In the morning, drain, cover with fresh cold water and heat slowly to the boiling point.

Boil gently for 40 minutes or until the rind is tender when pierced with a toothpick. Drain and let ecol while mixing the syrup. For five pounds of rind, use four pounds light brown sugar, two ounces stick cinnamon, one tablespoon whole cloves, the rind of one lemon cut cloves, the rind of one lemon cut in thin strips, two quarts cider vinegar and one cup water. The the spices in a muslin or cheesecloth bag, or several bags, if you have more than five pounds of the rind. Mix the sugar, vinegar and water and heat to the boiling point, drop in the spice bag and simmer for 20 minutes. Add the drained watermelon rind and the juice of the lemon and cook gently for about lemon and cook gently for about 1½ hours, or until the rind is transparent, the syrup thick and deep gold in color. Pack in small glass jars, fill with the hot syrup and jars, fill with the hot syrup and seal. Or pack in small stone crocks. The mixture does not have to be sealed to keep, but in these modern days few households have room to store stone crocks. Five pounds of rind will make about four jars of the pickle. Watermelon Rind Preserve.

A delicious preserve starts with preparing the rind in the same way. preparing the rind in the same way. Make a syrup of five pounds white sugar, the grated rind of one orange and one lemon, eight oups water and one-fourth pound scraped green ginger root, boiling all together for 20 minutes. Add the meion rind and simmer for about two hours or until the rind is transparent and amber colored. Fack in hot glass jars and seal. Five pounds of rind will nack about four pounds of rind will pack about four pounds of rind will pack about four pint jars. This is a richer and sweeter mixture than the sweet pickle, but is delicious served with cream cheese, or as a preserve with hot biscuits.

PERSONALLY, we doubt a little bit that our Post's 40% Bran Flakes really made all that difference in the Major.

It's quite possible, however, that our delicious cereal belped. For that logy, "good-for-nothing" feeling is often caused by a sluggish intestine... due to lack of bulk in the diet.

So if you're feeling not quite up to scratch, why don't you try Post's 40% Bran Flakes? It contains bran to supply that bulk you need, to help keep food wastes moving along the intestinal tract... and to promote regular elimination. It also contains other parts of wheat, to supply that appetizing, nut-like flavor. You'll love it!

"Marshmallow Method" Sherbet

This is made by what is sometimes called the "marshmallow method" which was developed by companies and which has become very popular. Put 20 fresh marsh-mallows in a double boiler with one-third cup hot water and let them heat until melted, stirring occasionally. Remove from the fire, add one cup crushed fresh apri-cots (peeled and rubbed through a coarse strainer) and one tablespoor lemon juice and pour into a bowl. Let cool until slightly thickened. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and add one-fourth cup pow dered sugar. Fold this into the marshmallow mixture and continue folding until thoroughly blended. It is quite often stated that cake or bread pans should never be washed. The claim is made that these days of get-your-own breakfasts and 15-minute dinners, you can't expect to have much imagination put into your meals—there isn't the time to season, taste and re-season that you need for new and original flavorings. But there in lies the art of food preparation and the habit should be cultivated.
Start with just one food—meat.

ROBBED OF $275 RING AND JUSTICE DEPARTMENT PLANS $90 AS HE ENTERS DRIVEWAY

Tayern Proprietor Held Up at His Home, 4548 Forest Park

George Madden, a tavern proprietor was robbed of $90 and a ring valued at $275 by two armed men who held him up as he drove into the driveway at his home, 4548 Forest Park boulevard at 4:30 a. m. today. The men fled on foot.

Roy Stevens, a cook, 4553 Washington boulevard, reported to a policeman at Taylor avenue and Olive street at 3 a. m. today that an hour earlier two armed men had climbed on the running obard of his car at Broadway and Olive street and forced him to drive in an alley just The Treasury has notified Mellon south of there. They robbed him of an additional assessment of $1.

A Suit for Franklin. Insured, Then Killed. Russia Goes Visiting. He Sold His Wife.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

HE President's mother, home from her travels, saw every-body, including the King and Queen, in Buckingham palace, where she had tea and told them where she had tea and told them about America.

Eyerybody that saw her liked and praised her. This is the news she brings back from Europe, nothing about Kings or Queens, you notice: "I have brought the loveliest tweed suit for Franklin."

That's the way mothers are, whether their sons are little boys three feet high, or big boys in charge of the biggest country. They are always "little boys needing a suit" to the mother.

Two women are accused of kill-Two women are accused of killing a 54-year-old lame man. At frequent recent intervals, according to the prosecutor, one woman had taken out insurance on the murdered man, until the total amounted to $9802 in policies, of which shewas the beneficiary. She is accused of arranging the murder to collect the money.

"Insurance murders" are said to have been made a regular branch of the racketeer-murder industry in New York.

There could be no safer murder, especially when the conspiracy includes a doctor to give a death certificate, after which, no questions.

Some Government agency should investigate such "insuring." The unfortunate handyman could not well refuse to let himself be insured when his employer demanded it. It should have been somebody's business to know who was to get the money if the insured individual were murdered, who paid the premiums. Somebody should investigate every policy not for the benefit of widow or children.

Russia is returning to interna-tional "society." When three Rus-sian airplanes, representing the Red army, landed at Prague an enormous crowd awaited the friendly planes; the people broke through a police cordon to rush on the field and congratulate the flyers.

A wise young Frenchman, hearng someone say: "When Russia gets rich, she'll act like all other rich people," remarked: "Russia is rich already, is turning to the right, and already changing her views."

Russia may well be rich, since there is no real wealth except hu-man labor and thought, and no man or woman able to work has been idle in Russia for the last 10 years, while we have had 10,000,000 to 15,-000,000 idle. And there has never been any lack of hard thinking in

Now that the Russian nation is free of the squandering, vicious, dissipated aristocracy of the Czars, progress should be rapid. And every man should rejoice, whatever his opinion of Lenin, or the right of Russians to have their own theories on government, as we have.

Hoboken, N. J., is shocked. One gentleman, who liked the looks of gentleman, who liked the looks of another gentleman's wife, bought the wife for $700, to be paid in in-stallments, like an automobile, "with her romantic consent." The last installment was paid recently. That makes all that are absolute-

That makes all that are absolutely well-behaved shudder, although many millions of human beings on earth never get a wife except by purchase. Other millions may sell a wife if they choose, and no evil is thought of it. It is thinking that "makes it so."

Death and the grave reveal strange secrets.

Briand, eminent French statesman, died and was buried in a simple peasant's grave in Normandy. Later, Mme. Jeanne Nouteau died, and, after objections, her family that had cast her out permitted her burial in the 'amily plot near her husband, dead long ago.

She had married the husband, a banker of St. Nasaire, when 17, soon fell in love with a young anarchist, who later became Briand, powerful French statesman. They never married, but lived together until he died. In his will, although his fortune was considerable, he left her nothing. Although very poor, she never would sell the hundreds of love letters that Briand had written her.

Accessories Put New Life In Old Frocks

Collars, Cuffs, Scarfs and Belts Give That Dressy Touch.

By Sylvia

A CCESSORY shops that have looked a bit wan for the last month or so are beginning to take on new life. Collars and cuffs, scarfs, bags, belts and a host of other items to make a spring dress have the appearance of fall or a fall dress look more dressy are on display. The bags are shown in a variety of novel styles so that you can't tell whether a woman is carrying field glasses or a pocketbook in her hand.

One black leather bag of finely grained calfskin has the appearance of an overgrown case for carrying glasses. It has a flap that fits over the top and a generously long strap handle. Inside there are compartments not only for coins and bills but for a quantity of beautifiers. Another bag somewhat similarly styled is of black suede and resembles a canteen. A third, of envelope type, has two flaps but of envelope type, has two flaps but strange to relate they are applied ruffles' and fascinating materials are among the features of the new collars and cuffs. One collar set that has both of these is of metallic striped organdie. The stripes run diagonally, thus adding to festivity. Valenciennes ruffling supplies the fluffy touch. Two styles are included in the fall collections, a glorified Buster Brown, and the other a smart little bib.

The half and half collar is an original sort of neckline decoration Silk pique fashions one-half of it and satin the other, both fabrics being developed of pure white. The collar has square lines both front and back, the better to impress admirers with its divided theme.

The flounced collar is another novelty that promises to be an early fall leader since it is high of neck and strikingly designed. Braided strips of white satin forms a little standing collar, the ends of the stripes being looped to form spagnetti-like fringe. Attached at the shoulders and extending across the front is a double satin flounce, the fullness provided by forward pleats. The flounced collar is another

Indications are that the velvet and velveteen scarf will give the novelty woolen ones some sound competition. One suit of dark green in a plaid rabbit's hair woolen includes a shirtwaist type of dress and a knee length swagger jacket. The jacket has a brown relveteen scarf thrown around the neck and caught into a jerky sort of bow.

Velvet flowers in the most breathtaking shades are appearing on the counters. Most of them are much too elaborate for daytime wear but they can blossom in the evening. Clusters that combine three large flowers in different colors predominate. One includes tomato, rust and brown. Another combines two shades of red with blue. Black and white combinations also are

When you glance down at a woman's foot this fall you are likely to think that something has gone awry. This impression is due to the sidewise placing of the lacings of her oxfords. In fact, the lacings may be of ribbon instead of regulation strings because the ribbon can be tied into a more pretentious bow. Cut-out effects and contrasting leather trimmings are seen extensively.

Invites Friend To Reception

At House Wedding It Is Permissible When Bride Is an Intimate Friend.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

HAVE received an invitation to a wedding and the reception, but must go alone unless I may ask for an invitation for the boy I go out with most of the time. The bride's family doesn't know him very well and he has no invitation. Is such liberty ever permitted guests?

guests?

Answer: Going alone to a wedding ought not to be a hardship!
At all events, it would not do at all to ask for an invitation to the house, unless the bride is a very intimate friend.

Even so, she may properly refuse on the ground of a too limited list to include some one they know slightly, when one they know slightly, when they have left out many friends whom they really wanted to in-vite.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am 10 years older than a very young bride who has asked me to be her maid of has asked me to be her maid of honor, and I'm afraid this appreciable difference is going to make me feel conspicuous even though the groom is my age. I don't want to say "no" to her unless you agree with me that she ought to ask one of her friends nearer her own age.

Answer: It would of course be more suitable that a very young bride's attendants be her own age, especially if the groom and his bride's attendants be her own age, especially if the groom and his friends were also very young. But at this particular wedding, since the groom and the ushers are your age, it is not likely that anyone will think you out of key.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am one of hree department heads in an office three department heads in an office of over a hundred men, with whom I am equally friendly. I am soon to be married, with practically nothing taking place but the actual ceremony. Guest Seldom How Death Rate Has Been Cut By Science in Diabetes Cases By Logan Clendening, M. D.

PEOPLE frequently ask: "What of years. Not until 1797, however, disease in the old days?" For some diseases the answer is, they treated very much as we do now, with about the same results. Sometimes one is inclined to think the patient was better off than with yeary modern and often dangerous forms of treatment—some of the very modern and often dangerous forms of treatment—some of the over-enthusiastic forms of surgical operation that have been making the front pages of the newspapers. Mostly, of course, we think that our methods of today are superior to those of former times.

To take a few illustrative instances of what was done in former days, let us start out with such a familiar subject as tonsils: Tonsils and their troubles have been known since the earliest times. Hippocrates, the Father of Medic writes about them. It was even ad-vised to remove them by Celsus, a Roman writer on medicine; he says when diseased, "they should be disengaged all around by the finger."
This method is still used in some clinics. Celsus advised that if the onsils could not be removed by the finger method, "it is necessary to take hold of them with a small hook and cut them out with a knife: Then wash the ulcer with vinegar and rub the wound with a styptic medicine." That sounds laryngoscopic mirror which illuminates the back of the throat.

For other diseases, modern, and very modern treatment at that, has instituted an entirely new outlook for the patient. Diabetes is a splen-did example. Diabetes has been known and described for hundreds very modern, in spite of the fact that it was written 1800 years ago.

Adenoids, however, were not seen until 1860, after the invention of the

Dear Mrs. Carr:

AM 20 years of age, am working, making $16 a week, and contributing it all to my family. I wish to leave my family for many reasons. The only thing that prevents me is the fact that the very next day after I leave, my mother or my sister would appear at the office at which I work and would cause a scene which would prevent me rom showing my face in the office again. If I could prevent my family from following me I would leave immediately.

My sister claims the custody of the money and she and my mother have proved to me that neither of them is capable. If that neither of them is capable. If I could put the power of handling the money back into my father's hands or into my own I am sure things would be different. My brother is not working, yet he can go to university. He has gone four lears so far and intends to continue longer. I am not permitted to go to school except at night. I do not see why my mother, who takes care of the money which we take in cannot keep a budget or something to keep account of the money. Whenever I ask her for such an account she breaks down and cries and claims I don't trust her. I know very well where the money goes—to my brother. Those of us who must remain in St. Louis during the months when the weather resembles a Turkish bath, have a real problem in the pursuit of coolness. This very desirable but elusive quality may be attained through our state of mind and the state of our wardrobe.

White, I believe, has a universal appeal. The sport dress illustrated is a life saver for these days. It is light weight, impervious to mussing, and tailored enough to be a suitable street costume. The kick pleats, the action back, and loose fitting sleeves make it a comfortable golf or tennis dress.

Huneker.
You've come across such ears, haven't you? Seemingly smart, current people, yet, on certain subjects, impenetrable as steel walls. Sit in with them on an argument that runs contrary to their notions—they hear the same words you hear, they make intelligent faces, but that's as far as it goes. Mentally they don't budge an inch. Nothing gets by that "plug of prejudice."

Now this sort of stubborn intol-Now this sort of stubborn intolerance is, obviously, not only pesty but downright poisonous. The moment you become fixed on any subject, your progress stops in that direction. Hardening of the imagination is infinitely more disastrous than hardening of the arteries. Then why do we get that way? Are we ever so wise that we couldn't stand a little more information? Is there any subject so sacred that discussion of it should be taboo?

Of course, we aren't—and there isn't. As a matter of fact, the sub-there any subject so sacred that discussion of it should be taboo?

Of course, we aren't—and there isn't. As a matter of fact, the subject itself has comparatively little to do with our intolerance. We plug our ears with prejudices, not to protect our convictions, but to protect our personal cussedness, cowardice and conceit.

Take, for example, the man whe objects to women smoking, and refuses—with snarls of rage—to hear any favorable comments on the be paved to a general attack on the whole male racket. Which would certainly raise Cain with endless masculine selfishness and vanity. So you simply can't argue with the man who insists that women shouldn't smoke. For if he yields on that one point, he exposes the whole range of his personal peevishness and will have to do something about it. Which, naturally, is unthinkable—to that type of human.

"The Lost Patrol" may not have established a record as a really artistic production. Radio is planning another on the same order, with Cliff Reid, who produced "Lost Patrol" producing "West of Pecos," a Zane Grey yarn in the same style and motif.

Back of Neck Is Covered in Winter Coats

PARIS, Aug. 18.

PARIS, Aug. 18.

C OVER the back of the neck, is the slogan for collars of this year's winter coats on exhibition at the big Paris dressmakers' establishments. Many of the collars rise half way up the back of the head, while 75 per cent of them cling close to the fieck.

The general tendency is for less laviah use of fur and less expensive pelts than in 1928. Thus there are many small, flat collars, although large designs also are numerous.

In the afternoon models, dark wools have big black astrakhan, lynx or silver fox collars, sometimes forming a cape shawl and sometimes streaming down the sides in two lines, stole fashion instead of crossing, while the cloth fastens close to the throat.

Other coats are furred with astrakhan, beaver or nutia in fairly small collars buttoning close to the throat, sometimes extending down the back or front in a fur pastron. They are designed in narrow lines.

occasionally fitted at the waist, otherwise straight, wrapping, tying or buttoning to the left.

Materials include navy, dark gray or brown duvetyns or rough wools.

The five-eighths, three-quarter and seven-eighths length coats worn as part of an ensemble are extremely important. They are sometimes belted and straight and again unbelted and very full. Occasionally they are worn with fur cravats tucked inside the cloth collars, sometimes lined with flat fur.

They are designed in rich cocoa, caramel brown, green, blue-green and gray mixtures with vari-colored threads interwoven.

Anything But! But he is deeply concerned over a possible menace to an entirely different maîter... Now all Hollywood is looking his own status as a male. Since time immemorial, males have had certain privileges and prevogatives. Smoking was one of them. There was no particular reason why males should have had special priv'leges . . . or why smoking should have been one of them. Females are People as well as Sasu Pitts and ending with a repeat as far as possible on extras, by for eight guests, taking them later to the Hollywood Bowl.

What did the movies do before the Damon Runyon vogue. They relied on good old gangster melodrama or stage plays to fill the gap. Now all Hollywood is looking around for a Runyon classic to film. B. P. Schulberg has one in family, handed down to posterity by an agent who sells these rare specimens. "Broadway Financier" is Schulberg's classic and it's to have Sylvia Sidney as its star.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE TWO-HEADED LIVE COW—This animal wonder, normal in every respect except for the double head, was exhibited in New York and examined by many incredulous naturalists. Its body was well developed and it was perfect in the performance of every bodily function. The second head, growing out of a lateral depression in its cranium, was regularly developed with eyes, horns, nostrils, mouth and all. It was never seen to take nourishment with its other mouth, but it apparently used the duplicate to chew the cud. Head number two was also deficient in the development of the cerebrum. It lived for 8 years, and was fierce and robust while alive.

Thing of Beauty

By Eloise Fort James

I T was Saturday afternoon and Mrs. Celis Fake was returning good of you to let me come with charities. She had been called before the board to explain why she had spent some of her last week's allowance for a can of red paint and two scarlet geranium plants.

Ever since her husband, Gordon Fiske, had been without work the city had allowed the family of two enough money and provisions to eke out an existence.

The stranger interposed: "It was good of you to let me come with you to see this unusual case." He turned to Mrs. Flake. "I am an economist."

Mr. Leary went on: "Instead of struggled to surround yourselves with what one might call the beauties of life, been able to keep happy and make beauty for others" the guests.

Mrs. Van Fleet came to the point at once. "Mrs. Flake, I am afraid "Mrs. Smythe sniffed; Mrs. Van Place of the point at once." "Mrs. Flake, I am afraid "Mrs. Smythe sniffed; Mrs. Van Place of the point at once." "Mrs. Flake, I am afraid "Mrs. Smythe sniffed; Mrs. Van Place of the point at once." Smythe, sternly.

"Well, we have all we need," answered Mrs. Flake, smoothing the bow of her apron. "We are getting that the washing.

"But"— he tried to protest.

"No 'buts,' Gordie. Let's hurry so we can get off their darn old charity list."

Flake, had been without work the city had allowed the family of two enough money and provisions to eke out an existence.

To use the money for this purpose had compelled ner to stint on food. But she didn't mind and neither did Gordon.

On the way down Main street she stopped before the dime store. She stared at the windows, fascinated. Soon she was inside the store. Then she forgot all about the charity board and her resolutions. She purchased a pearl necklace with 10 cents of the charity money.

After that it was easy. Four lovely pink plates and a fern dish with the feathery plant, completed her purchases and virtually exhausted the money she had received that day. At home she clasped the beads about her neck and stood before a mirror to admire them. Their luster accentuated her sallow face.

On Monday morning about 10 o'clock there came a sharp rap on the door and Er. Flake stepped softly to open it. His wife had started the washing machine in the kitchen.

Three important looking persons stepped within. Mrs. Van Fleet, Mrs. Parke Smythe of the charities and a stranger, a man whom Mr. Flake had never before seen in his dealings with the board.

Mrs. Van Fleet had seen Mrs. Flake agend the charity money in the dime store. This time there would be no compromise.

Mrs. Flake came into the room tying on an apron and caimly eyed the guests.

Mrs. Parke Smythe said: "You and your husband must come before the board next Saturday. We will get hought. Then he turned to Mr. Flake. "How would you like to be a gardener?" inquired Mr. Leary. "A gardener?" exclaimed Mr. Flake. "Gordie, to raise flowers for a rich man."

"Not necessarily flowers, Mrs. Flake, I see, could make the flowers grow all right. Then there is a nice cotage on the place for the gardener and his family. I can get this job for you. I am sure."

Mr. Leary seemed to be in deep thought. Then he turned to Mr. Flake. "Gordie, to raise flowers for a rich man."

"Not necessarily flowers, Mrs. Flake, I see, could make the flowers grow and his family. I can g

He smiled. She kissed him and together they went to the kitchen to do the washing and dream of the future that was filled with beauty. (Copyright, 1934.)

Strangely enough fear of becoming poverty stricken was much more common among the married than the unmarried, and also the inability to get along with relatives was much greater among the married women. Texas longhorn cattle are roaming all over New Jersey these days. They are wilder than Scotch thistles.

There ain't any rain in the West, so Jersey said, "Send them on." Now Jersey is hearing the thunder of 10,000 stears, and the Newark drugstore cowboys are singing "My Home On the Rolling Plain."

Jersey City department stores are running out of string because the orwalkers are making it into lariats. Jersey has gone cowboy. A room and bath is known as "The Ranch." They're chasing cats, chickens, dogs and mice with branding irons.
